SUSTAINABILITY

We've reached a crucial moment in climate action. We firmly believe that it's only through a collective effort of both significant and smaller individual commitments that we can make a positive impact on our CO2 consumption and reduce our ecological footprint.

With this mindset, we've made a series of decisions that will affect all stakeholders of the tournament: decision-makers, organizers, athletes, and the general public.

We thank you in advance for your understanding and support throughout this process.
