FIP World Padel Championships, here are the 32 qualifiers Road to Doha: one month to go, tournament logo unveiled

With the victory of the United Arab Emirates in the men's tournament of the Asia-Africa Qualifiers, the list of the 32 national teams qualified for the FIP World Padel Championships has been completed. In Doha, Qatar, from 28 October to 2 November, there will be the best of world padel, for the 17th edition of the competition organised by the International Padel Federation. And exactly one month before the start of the FIP World Padel Championships, the tournament's official logo has also been unveiled. In the next few days, the lists of players will be announced, with the individual national federations in the process of officialising their rosters. And on the court, in Doha, there will be all the world's best athletes.

MEN Argentina, Spain, France, Portugal, Brazil, Belgium, Paraguay, Chile, Italy and hosts Qatar were the ten national teams already qualified for the men's tournament. They were joined by Sweden and the Netherlands (who gained a pass in the FIP European Padel Championships in Cagliari), Uruguay (through the South American Qualifiers in Montevideo), Mexico, the United States (through the North American Qualifiers in Monterrey) and the United Arab Emirates.

WOMEN Spain, Argentina, Italy, Belgium, Portugal, Sweden, France, Germany, Brazil and the Netherlands were the ten nations qualified for the women's competition through the rankings. They were joined by Denmark (qualified in Cagliari), Chile and Uruguay (who came out of the South American Qualifiers in Viña del Mar), the United States (qualified in Monterrey), Egypt and Japan, the last two teams to gain a ticket to Doha in the Asia-Africa Qualifiers in Kuwait City.

As of today, the countdown begins: the FIP World Padel Championships are coming.
